SREC ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

In this issue

GRACIAS

Dr. A. Ebenezer Jeyakumar, Director (Academic), SNR Sons Charitable Trust contributed Rs. 50,000 to the SREC AA during the Bangalore Chapter Annual Alumni Meet . SREC AA thank our Director for his magnanimous contributions and offer sincere gratitude for his support.

SREC AA thank Dr. A. Murugarajan, for his outstanding support and guidance as president of the association from 2008 – 2015. We truly appreciate his commitment and efforts in making the association strong.

BRIGHTEST SPARK

"The Solutions for greatest problems lie in the tiniest facts." This was proved by Mr. A. Loganathan (2009-2013/EEE) who was patented for his work titled "Atom Geometry". He, as a geometer, published this work in order to break the 213 year old record in connecting the 7 classical languages, 51 countries and 200 crore people and succeeded in this effort using Mathematics.

He, by his work has also made it possible to realize the usual geometry in the form of several beautiful named Flowers. He dedicates this work, as mentioned in his paper, to "the food of 85 crore poor people around the world."

Authentic Relationships

He who has a true friend has found a treasure!

Friends were aplenty in our younger days that we tended to take them for granted. The friend who would finish your Mats assignment for you, teach you the day before the exams every time and whose family would feed you and give you a place to sleep. We have all benefited immensely from this genuine affection and still hold them dear in our memories. Somehow as we've transitioned to the "real world" such relationships have become a rarity, we deal primarily in transactions, ie, I reach out to others only when I need something from them. In doing this we have built very shallow connections and find it difficult in our moment of need to find someone whom we can trust implicitly.

How do we get out of this age of diluted relationships (with all due respect to Facebook, I cannot have 100s of genuine friends)? Here are a few things you can try immediately:

1) Reconnect with old friends: Pick up the phone and you will see how easy it is to renew the relationship despite the years, miles in between

2) Share articles, interesting information with former colleagues. Giving something of use to them shows that you know and still care about them.

3) Begin by asking about them, not from them. You can enquire about their family, job, etc. This will let them know that you are not simply using them.

4) Take the first step: Most relationships don't break, rather they wither away for lack of attention. Instead of waiting for someone to reach out to you, why don't you make the first move?

5) Be genuine: Ultimately the relationships that have lasted a lifetime were not born out of what the person could do for us, rather out of a genuine interest in who they are. You cannot fake it.

May you be fulfilled through more authentic relationships!

The SREC Alumni Entrepreneur's Summit Planning Committee meeting was held at SNR Sons College on 19th October . The alumni members gave various inputs regarding the conduct of Entrepreneurs Summit to be jointly organized by SRECAA, EDC , CII YI, Yi Yuva.

The 3rd Batch Alumni Reunion Planning meet was held on 22nd September 2015 at Coffee Day, Race Course. Planning a reunion is a challenging and daunting task. Members gave their valuable ideas and suggestions to track their classmates and event planning.
